Coal Supply Here Adequate as Ice Coats County and State

Washington C. H. went into the grip of a cold wave today with promise that its coal supplies are adequate to see both commercial and residential users through its stiffest breezes.

This was a heartening bit of news in the face of reports around the state of steadily dwindling coal supplies in the larger cities.

The Associated Press carried reports critical situations in Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton and Youngstown.

Two major coal companies here queried Thursday about their coal supplies, reported that they were getting regular shipments from Ohio mines, some only 60 miles away. Both said they are getting rail shipments of Kentucky and West Virginia coal.

One of the coal yards said it had a stockpile on hand which would see it through even a prolonged cold spell here. The other yard said it had a "fair" supply on hand and might be hard pressed to meet demands should the cold wave continue for a long period.

Alfred E. Weatherly, manager of the Dayton Power & Light

Company office here, said DP&L was in "good shape" with coal supplies used for central heating.

Meanwhile, rain, snow and sleet was the offering of the weather man Wednesday night and Thursday, with the temperature hanging so close to the freezing mark that part of the time rain turned to ice as it fell and again the ice melted under the pelting rain.

At no time Wednesday night did the mercury drop below 28 degrees, after a peak of 64 degrees and during the 24 hours ending

Thursday at 8 A. M.

The rainfall totaled .65 of an inch, bringing to well over 1.5 inches the total so far in January.

A number of minor traffic accidents occurred in the city and county early Thursday, as ice on windshields obscured the vision of drivers.

At times Thursday the ice was so heavy on trees that many (Please turn to page two)

Need No Changes In Farm Policies Now, Leaders Say

General Opposition Developing In Congress To Most Proposals Made by President in Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Congressional farm leaders today countered President Truman's new plea for the Brannan Plan by expressing anew their confidence in the present farm program.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House agriculture committee told newsmen he has no plan to bring the Brannan Plan up for a vote in the new session of Congress.

"It was defeated last fall, and I regard this as its final defeat in the 81st Congress," he said.

Senator Anderson (D-NM), who preceded Charles F. Brannan as Mr. Truman's secretary of agriculture, said:

"I feel the present legislation should be given an opportunity to operate before we launch a new program. I don't think sentiment of Congress is much different now than it was last fall."

Brannan's proposal would use federal funds to pay direct subsidies to farmers and thereby make some foods cheaper for consumers.

In contrast, the program passed in the closing days of the last session seeks, through government crop loans and purchases of surpluses, to maintain near parity prices for many farm commodities.

(Parity is a price calculated to maintain farm purchasing power in fair relationship to the things farmers must buy).

General Opposition

Congressional leaders responded to President Truman's state-of-the-union message today by turning thumbs down on half a dozen of his legislative proposals—including more taxes.

Important members in both parties were quick to frown on the "moderate" tax increase asked by Mr. Truman yesterday at the outset of a congressional election year.

Instead, they emphasized reduced spending. Falling sharp economies in a budget expected to exceed $42,100,000,000 the government presumably would continue red ink spending.

Similarly, Congress members in a position to act said in about as many words that the president's appeals for continuation of the military draft, Taft-Hartley repeal, the Brannan Farm Plan, medical insurance and the St. Lawrence seaway go on the shelf for this session.

There was an apparently clear road for (1) expansion of social security coverage and benefits and (2) continuation — on a reduced scale — of economic and military aid to non-Communist countries abroad.

Dem. National Leader To Visit Columbus

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5—(AP)—Plans will be made in Columbus today for the first visit to Ohio of William Boyle since his recent appointment as Democratic National chairman.

Boyle will be here next Monday and Tuesday "to meet the state's political leaders and look over the general situation."

It is further noted that "The board authorized its president, William H. Dial, to send a telegram to the manager of the Army and Navy Register, Washington, D. C. who had already been corresponded with, to send one of its best reporters here to make a thorough investigation of the so-called riot, the conduct of Col. Coit while in this city, and the unwarranted and cowardly murder of our people by the troops under his command."

It was alleged that Col. Coit was intoxicated when he gave the order to fire, and these charges later were given an airing

Rain Slows Up Removal Here Of Yule Lights

Insurance Carried On Decorations Now While in Storage

Rainy weather today was blamed for the delay in getting the Christmas decorations down in the business section of Washington C. H. and stored away for another year.

Under normal conditions, the strands of lights and greenery across the streets would have been taken down right after New Year's Day. But, it was explained at the Chamber of Commerce office, conditions have not been exactly normal weatherwise since the dawn of the new year.

Some of the light strands have been taken down, but many more are still swinging overhead in the drizzling rain.

John Lauffer, who has an electrical service shop in Bloomingburg, had the contract for putting up the lights and taking them down.

Until the weather clears a bit, about the only thing that can be done to tone down the hang-over of the Yuletide appearance is to keep the lights turned off as long as they remain in place.

Once the lights and attached decorations are down, they are to be stored in the Dayton Power & Light Co. building, C. E. McCarley, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Light Strands Insured

The Chamber, which has assembled the lights during the past two years, is taking no chances of losing out on Christmas decorations again. These are insured for $2,000, he said.

The Chamber, or rather its predecessor, the Business and Civic Association—had similar decorations back before the war. But, they were lost in a fire in 1941 when the Associated Plumbers office and warehouse on Main Street burned.

All through the war years and for several afterward, the city's (Please turn to Page Fourteen)

Traffic Accident Proves Expensive

HAMILTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—That was an expensive traffic accident that William Snyder, 23, a soldier from Sophia, W. Va., had here Tuesday. Snyder was charged with intoxication, driving while intoxicated and assault and battery as a result of the accident and yesterday he was fined a total of $417.55 in municipal court.

In addition, his driving privileges were revoked for five years and he was ordered sent to the Cincinnati workhouse until the fines are paid. He said he was on furlough from Fort Knox, Ky.

Four Escaped Convicts Give Up; Trapped in Shack in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5—(AP)—Four convicts who shot their way to freedom Saturday and touched off one of Arkansas' most sensational manhunts are back in custody today—two of them in a hospital with bullet wounds.

The end of the grueling, five-day chase through rain and finally sleet and cold weather came last night when the last of the desperadoes were captured in North Little Rock.

"I'm glad it's over," said 22-year-old Jack Rheurk of Sapulpa, Okla., one of the wounded men. "The cold was hell."

Arkansas Prison Supt. Lee Henslee said he, too, was glad the hunt was over.

Rheurk and James Perry Williams, 29, of Sheridan, Ark., were the only two fugitives who lived up to Henslee's prediction that the

Reappraised Real Estate Values Here Being Checked by State Investigators

Ferd F. Becker, chief of the county affairs division of the Ohio Department of Taxation, was in Fayette County, Wednesday, starting an investigation regarding the real estate reappraisal values in Fayette County, both in city and rural sections.

He had with him, Edwin Ducey and Lloyd McGuire, of the appraisal department of the State Taxation Department.

Becker and his assistants spent the entire day in the county, and before leaving late Wednesday,

Becker said that he expected to be back Friday.

He said the investigation here was the first of its kind in the state but similar inquiries would be made into some other county realty valuations.

He indicated that the state department, acting under the new law, seeks to have uniformity in values among counties where valuations are similar.

Values May Be Raised

This would indicate that if the revaluations fixed here under the reappraisal are considered too low, they will be given a general percentage boost.

However, Becker declined to make any statement as to the intentions of the department, but said "wait until the investigation is completed, then I will not hesitate to give our findings here."

Becker said there had been "too much publicity" regarding the reappraisal in Fayette County, and stated that he was surprised at the trend of some of it last fall.

Becker said he probably would be back to continue the investigation Friday, and would keep after it until definite information is obtained.

"I have not even pulled my coat off yet," he laughingly said in referring to the extent of the inquiry to be made in the county.

Following graduation, he took a position with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in Athens County, serving a period of training under the farm planner in that county.

Baker was born and raised on a farm in Richland County and farmed there for 12 years. He served with the army at Fort Scott near San Francisco during World War II. He is married.

His promotion to the position of farm planner for Fayette County was made effective by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service Tuesday.

He was here Wednesday with Blosser getting acquainted with residents of this community and familiarizing himself with his duties and responsibilities.

The farm planning office will continue to have its headquarters at 142½ East Court Street.

British Troops Sent to Eritrea

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Britain is sending troops and warships to Eritrea to quell new outbreaks of murder and violence in Italy's former red sea colony.

The foreign office announced the action last night and said Italy and Ethiopia had been warned Britain would take "a serious view" if their representatives acted in a way "likely to provoke disturbance of the peace in the territory."

Both Italy and Ethiopia want control of Eritrea which has been occupied by Britain since 1941.

No Aid to Formosa President Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—President Truman declared emphatically today the United States will refrain from military intervention in Formosa lest it lead to "involvement in the civil conflict in China."

He reaffirmed in succinct terms America's traditional "open door" policy in China which opposes efforts by foreign nations to acquire spheres of influence or other privileges in that country.

In a formal statement read at a news conference, he said these principles apply in the present situation in Formosa where the Chinese Nationalist government is making a last stand against the Communists overrunning China proper.

But he said the United States will not intervene in Formosa, either with arms or military aid or advice. He said resources on Formosa are adequate to enable the Nationalists to defend the island.

Phone Strike Is Threatened

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—A nationwide telephone strike is planned by a newly-chartered CIO union for early next month.

The CIO's Communications Workers of America said it will call the walkout unless the Bell Telephone System yields to demands for a "substantial" wage increase shorter apprentice periods, and a 35-hour week.

A. T. Jones, CWA's vice president, said 100,000 workers are in a position to strike at any time now. Another wave of 150,000 workers, he said, will be ready to quit their jobs by the end of February.

Jones, indicating that the walkout may thus occur in two steps, contended his union is "getting nowhere" in negotiations with Bell companies. He said phone workers have dropped as a group from 7th to 25th place in average weekly earnings since 1939.

In answer to Jones, a spokesman for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, parent firm of the Bell System, said in a statement that telephone workers are "well paid."

Russia Is In Grip Of Cold War, Too

MOSCOW, Jan. 5—(AP)—Moscow, with temperatures dropping under 30 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit), was gripped today in its sharpest cold wave since the grim winter of 1941-42 when the Germans were driven back from the Soviet capital.

The oldtime Russian winter has been building up since Christmas when the mercury plunged below zero. Ever since it's been getting progressively colder. This morning the thermometer registered 31 degrees below zero.

Crushed Under Bus

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5—(AP)—Grover C. Dier, 56, yesterday was pronounced dead of traffic injuries at General Hospital, where his wife, Florence, was being treated in preparation for an operation.

Dier was crushed under the wheels of a bus in downtown Cincinnati.

Marriage Is No Bar to High School

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP)—A married school child may not be barred from school because of his marriage, Common Pleas Judge George McDowell ruled yesterday.

The ruling is believed to have been the first of its kind in Ohio legal history.

Judge McDowell handed down his decision in the case of Joseph Martin, 17, who, until his marriage last winter was a London High School junior.

The Highland County judge was sitting in the Madison County case by assignment. He cited two sections of the Ohio General Code in his decision:

1. That public schools in each city, town and school district shall be free to all residents between the ages of 6 and 21.

2. All children between 6 and 18 must attend school.

Innocent Plea Made To 'Mercy Murder'

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 5—(AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander today pleaded innocent to an indictment charging first degree murder in the so-called "mercy slaying" of an incurable cancer patient.

The state agreed to his freedom pending trial under a continuance of his $25,000 bond with the stipulation that he refrain from medical practice until disposition of the case.

Dr. Sander's Attorney E. Wyman, said the stipulation about refraining from practice was over the protest of defense counsel because of the presumption of innocence at this time.

"I assume this agreement is without prejudice in the future," Wyman told the court.

Dr. Sander stood erect and showed no emotion while Court Clerk Arthur S. Healy read the indictment charging the country doctor:

"Feliciously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought did inject 10 cubic centimeters of air in close succession into the veins of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59," his cancer patient.

Ritz-Carlton Hotel Is To Be Torn Down

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(AP)—The ultra-fashionable Ritz-Carlton Hotel whose name helped put the word "ritzy" into the English language, is to be torn down.

A 25 story office building will be erected in its place.

The task of demolishing the 16-story hotel, a luxury landmark in New York City for 40 years, will begin early next year.

The plan was disclosed yesterday by the Uris Brothers real estate firm, which said it had obtained a long-term lease on the site at an annual ground rental of $225,000.

The firm said the new office building will cost some $15,000,000. The hotel, scene of many a lavish social event and internationally known for its fine foods and luxurious facilities, fronts the west side of Madison Avenue from 46th to 67th street, Manhattan.

Weygant to Run Again

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5—(AP)—Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant of the Ohio supreme court now serving his third consecutive six-year term, yesterday said he would seek re-election this year.

New records for the date were set in many eastern cities yesterday as temperatures climbed to mid-summer readings. But the cold air moving from the midwest was expected to put the mercury back to near normal marks soon.

Lilacs bloomed out of season in Maine and Massachusetts and girls went swimming in the sea at Asbury Park, N. J. Portland's top was 64 and Newark reported a record 67 reading. Even New Hampshire's Mount Washington, the highest peak in the northeastern part of the country, had a trace of spring with temperatures of 42.

Mercury Tumbles

The mercury tumbled to 26 degrees below zero at International Falls and Bemidji, Minn., early today. Other sub-zero marks were reported over most of Minnesota, Montana, the Dakotas and parts of Iowa and Wisconsin. There was some moderation in the Dakotas. All main roads were open in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Freezing rain fell over many areas, including Lufkin, Bryan, Waco, Temple and Austin.

The weather bureau reported a rain belt from central New York State southwestward through Tennessee and the lower Mississippi Valley and the freezing rain, sleet or snow in an area one to 200 miles wide from central Ohio southwestward to southern Arkansas.

Volunteer National Guardsmen and the Red Cross rushed emergency aid to flooded areas in east, central and southern Illinois. Schools in some communities were closed.

Heavy rains over the past several days have sent the rivers and creeks in Indiana and Illinois over their banks.

North and part of central Texas shivered in sub-freezing readings. Freezing rain fell over many areas, including Lufkin, Bryan, Waco, Temple and Austin.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(P)—Here's an outline of the rapid-fire moves in Washington these next few days.

Today—At 1 P. M. President Truman stands before Congress to deliver his "State of The Union" message.

Friday—He sends Congress his economic report on the nation.

Monday—He sends Congress his budget message.

It's that way every year. Until after Monday Congress will spend most of its time praising or criticizing the messages.

The Democrats, mostly, will do the praising. The Republicans, mostly, will do the criticizing.

This would be unusual only if it didn't happen that way. Now take the three messages:

State of the Union—Mr. Truman will tell Congress the kind of program he thinks it ought to pass into law in 1950.

This is the unfinished part of the program which Mr. Truman asked Congress to pass in 1949.

Congress may pass some of it, certainly not all.

But this is an election year for most of Congress, in November. What it does and what it fails to do will be political ammunition then.

You can call the shots now:

1. The Trumanites will blame the Republicans for failures and ask the voters to send back an even stronger Democratic Congress.

2. The Republicans will jeer that the Democrats control Congress now and wouldn't put the program into effect, or they'll say the Democrats are trying to go too far too fast or are trying to bring about socialism or something else.

All this cross-fire between now and election time will only add to the voters' confusion, which is to be expected.

The Economic Message—Mr. Truman undoubtedly will say the nation is doing fine, must be kept that way, should try to do better.

He'll be on the side of higher employment, business profits, good wages.

But if he talks about boosting taxes to take care of government expenses, Democrats and Republicans alike will scream.

Since this is an election year, if they favored higher taxes they'd be as popular back home as poison ivy.

Budget Message—Mr. Truman will go into details about the cost of running the government another year.

This budget message is always the cue for an outburst of Congressional oratory — generally against the size of the spending.

In fact, both Democrats and Republicans already are calling for less government spending.

But whether they will have voted for less spending or more—by the time they finish up next summer — is something else.

Right now they'll be for less, not more.

Along with his budget message, Mr. Truman will dump on Congress the budget itself.

If the budget fell on a man's head it could knock him out.

It's full—item by item and row by row—of figures. These represent the costs of running the government.

A big crowd of livestock buyers paused long enough at an auction held Wednesday at the Union Stockyards here to pay tribute to Buryl Carr and five of his truck drivers.

The occasion was a presentation by Tom Justice, president of the Livestock Loss Prevention Association, to the drivers for their outstanding record in hauling livestock during the past year.

The presentation—signs calling attention to the fact that the bearers have complied with safety requirements—is the third to be made in Ohio since the association adopted a policy of making awards a year ago.

Each of the truckers are entitled to carry one of the signs on his truck. Those honored included: Hubert Sword, James Pierson, Dean Mann, Roy Thomas and Harold Brown. They all are drivers for Buryl Carr's trucks.

Justice said the awards were made only after a report and a thorough study of the safety records of each driver.

He emphasized that some $15,000,000 in livestock losses occurred in Ohio last year. He said the national figure was about $50,000,000.

Standards Set Up

The awards are made to indicate that the driver has complied with the following standards:

1. Loads and unloads carefully.

2. Drives carefully. 3. Does not overload. 4. His equipment is in good condition. 5. He does not beat, club or prod livestock which he hauls. 6. Livestock is taken to market in top condition.

The association has its membership among farmers, packers, livestock agencies, auctions and practically all other organizations or individuals who are in any way connected directly or indirectly associated with livestock hauling.

Justice said money is saved by the association through its program of protecting livestock in shipment. The association discourages any beating, clubbing or prodding of livestock which makes it necessary for slaughter houses and packers to cut out damaged portions of the meat.

Great Task For Last Half of 20th Century

We have witnessed the close of a great half century.

There has been progress, development and disappointments. The latter stems from lack of human self control, the failure in abatement of man's own worst enemy—selfishness.

As the first half of the 20th century fades into history, the world looks ahead to what most international students believe to be serious problems in the memory of mankind.

It is apparent to scientists and technologists, although not yet evident in our daily lives, that we shall have, within the foreseeable future, all the means necessary to achieve a standard of living for people, almost everywhere, undreamed of at any other period of world history.

With the conquest of atomic fission, new sources of power will make it possible to harness energy as never before known for the performance of many tremendous tasks which heretofore were too expensive or too difficult for most nations of the earth.

Now we are called to a still greater task the harnessing of the human spirit against selfishness that keeps bringing trouble to the world.

If the 20th century is to make any lasting contribution to world civilization, it must come about as the direct result of cooperative efforts to build a greater understanding among people.

Peace on Earth has been an ideal impossible of attainment in previous eras of world development because of the inevitable tensions arising among nations and peoples by reasons of economic differences. Eliminate this basic cause of jealousy and rivalries, and the dream is no longer impracticable.

The first half of the 20th century has witnessed the most remarkable advances in world history in the realm of material contributions to human advancement. May the second half give birth to similar gains in the vaster area of the human spirit.

Clarifying Atom Tangle

Atomic energy has become the Number 1 bugaboo of the world's statesmen. They are almost frightened to death at every mention of the subject. Something ought to be done to alleviate their fears and clear the atmosphere.

With a new appointment due on the Atomic Energy Commission within the next few weeks, the issue becomes one of greatest moment to our own people. We should understand much more than we do about the whole question.

To date, our government has tended to act as if it could prevent everyone from learning the major secrets of atomic fission. We know that this is impossible. Too many scientists from too many diverse countries were parties to the research, the experimentation, and the actual construction of the devices utilized in splitting the atom to make this even remotely possible. We have evidence of the atomic bomb in Russia, in Britain, and in our own country. Scientists all over the world are members of international bodies which for generations have encouraged the free exchange of information. They know the secrets which we are pretending to cherish for ourselves alone.

Once we admit this fundamental fact, the need for sound control of atomic energy becomes manifest. In 1950 we must make real progress towards ending the confusion on atomic energy. We must take the lead in this as in every other vital matter of international importance.

Everything Is Nifty In 1950

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Let's dust off our old $4.98 crystal ball, and see what the year ahead has in store for us.

Well, this poor man's philosopher, sees 1950 as a less jittery period than 1949.

The world will argue as much as ever, but it will sink with more confidence into the routines of peace.

Fear of immediate war will abate still more. Nobody will drop an atom bomb in anger, and more people will worry about losing their jobs than fret about being hit by an atom bomb.

Salesmen will have to work a little harder to make their percentages. The slogan "the customer is always right" will remain still more of its old meaning.

Pension protection will be a bigger political issue than tariff protection. Since it's an election year, Congress will repeal the taxes on fur coats and baby powder.

Who will carry the elections? The crystal ball fogs up there, but it is safe to let the Republican party end the year with more new voters in its fold than new congressmen. So will the Democrats.

Among other things the crystal ball flatly predicts these things—(but you can't put too much faith in a $4.98 mouthpiece):

Bing Crosby's hairline will continue to recede, and Humphrey Bogart will be bitten by a live panda.

General Douglas MacArthur will return to America.

Both Notre Dame and Oklahoma will lose a football game. (Don't write in to say I'm crazy—it's my crystal ball that's talking.)

Don't expect a subway series in baseball. The National League winner: the St. Louis Cardinals (Brooklyn Dodgers second). The American League winner: Boston (Detroit second). The St. Louis Browns will play the full season as usual.

In the heavyweight boxing picture nothing will happen to make anybody forget Jack Dempsey or Joe Louis.

Wrestling, on the other hand, will unveil a bright new star—a 357-pound bearded savage from Brazil who eats roaches and wins matches by tying his whiskers around the other wrestler's throats. He will earn $135,684 during the year—nine times as much as Dr. Albert Einstein.

In the literary world there will be fewer fine religious books on the best seller list, as people in good times often forget the Lord. The most popular items on the non-fiction list will have such titles as "How to Psychoanalyze Your Boss," or "You don't Have to Be Old to Enjoy a Pension."

Bulletin news: there will be 12 erroneous reports of Premier Joseph Stalin's death, and he will turn down an American offer of $500,000 for his memoirs. (Winston Churchill will offer to ghost write them for half that.)

Some 12,673 bars will begin putting ten-cent beers in containers that look less like a jigger and like a real glass.

Television will continue to frighten the rest of the entertainment world by its epochal growth. But commercial color television—like the rainbow—won't be ready to come inside the home. Its programs will grow better.

The stock market? Bullish most of the way.

President Truman will grow a moustache during a Key West vacation but shave it off before the fall campaigns.

That's what the crystal ball says—and you can believe it or buy your own ball.

For the rest of it, life will be pretty much the mixture as before for the average man. He'll remember 1950 as a fine year, and if he behaves himself he shouldn't feel much more than 12 months older by 1951.

Changes During Half A Century

By George E. Sokolsky

In 1900, nationalism was an unquested concept in American life. A man either was an American or a foreigner. Americans believed in the constitution of the United States, the inviolability of its flag, that the United States was the greatest and grandest country on Earth. This was God's own country.

The people had only recently experienced the Spanish-American War, an imperialist effort indicating national maturity, and more enthusiasm was generated than during World War II. The return of Admiral Dewey stirred the enthusiasm and imagination of the whole American people.

Then came the various episodes in relation to the building of the Panama Canal which again gave to our people a wholesome sense of well-being.

Theodore Roosevelt was a nationalist. He was of the very earth of America. His outlook on life was American, from his New York origin to his early manhood in the open plains of the west. His "Rough Riders" were more typical of American free-landing than the best organized division of an army. And while he was regarded as a peace president and won a Nobel Prize for his peaceful endeavors, he placed his country before all else—and said so. He may have reflected the mood of his times, but Teddy, as he was lovingly called, was no reflector: his nature was to push ahead.

Theodore Roosevelt had the advantage of having in his cabinet two of the last of our great secretaries of state, John Hay and Elihu Root. With the possible exception of Charles E. Hughes in the Harding and Coolidge administrations, subsequent presidents were weakly served by their secretaries of state, and in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration that office degenerated into a repository of presidential whim ineptly serviced.

Peace movements in the early years of the twentieth century were designed principally for the establishment of international law as binding upon all countries and for some type of juridical determination of the problems arising among nations. The Hague Tribunal was well regarded among nations. In Europe, there was a balance of power which held until the Agadir Affair (1911) when it appeared as though the rising power of Germany might explode into war. The Nobel Peace Prizes (P.P.) stimulated interest in peace and there were many organizations among the people that fostered various concepts for better relations among nations.

However, peace movements did not lessen nationalistic sentiments, and although many European countries maintained in the United States "hands-across-the-seas" organizations, none of them accomplished more than long speeches on important occasions. The British were influential in the state department but enjoyed no mass following and were not as favored as the French or the Germans; the latter, particularly in the middle west, Americans of Irish origin were, of course, especially anti-British.

It was not until the advent of World War I that the concept of a more or less "one world" appeared in public opinion. The league to enforce peace, presided over by William Howard Taft, was undoubtedly a forerunner of the ideas of Woodrow Wilson for a league of nations, a parliament of states.

Woodrow Wilson was an intense nationalist, who, while he sought a world body to curb war and the processes that lead to war, so thoroughly believed in the right of a people to govern themselves within the terms of their own national traditions that he made that the central concept of his Fourteen Points which gave World War I its goal and he actually helped to found a group of strongly nationalistic republics in Europe.

Wilson's excesses kept this country out of the league of nations and laid the foundation for World War II. It was in that war that the United States departed altogether from traditional nationalism. So complicated did our world partnership become that it led to the vicious and damaging decisions at Teheran and Yalta, decisions secretly arrived at, defying public opinion which was beguiled by actual falsehoods. World War II was conducted to minimize nationalism, even to minimize the importance of the United States as a nation. So general was this attitude that it was relayed to our troops by our government. In the United Nations, it was hoped that nationalisms would be dissolved.

Wonder Drug Makes Conquest

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A YEAR'S work with aureomycin, most recent of the wonder drugs, stamps this golden-yellow germ-killer as one of the most valuable of the so-called antibiotics.

Aureomycin not only attacks a wider variety of diseases than either penicillin or streptomycin but, unlike these remedies, it is effective when taken by mouth.

Recently, for instance, it has been found effective when given in this way against amebic dysentery, a disorder which penicillin will not help. This disease is caused by a parasite known as the ameba, which invades the intestines to bring about such symptoms as diarrhea, loss of weight and strength and, in some cases, abscesses of the liver. With aureomycin, the symptoms rapidly disappear and, within a few days, the parasites can no longer be found in the bowel movements.

Not as Effective

Aureomycin has also been employed in the treatment of cases of acute syphilis, and the results obtained were like those which may be expected with penicillin. Aureomycin is not as effective in treating gonorrhea as penicillin. In pneumonia produced by the pneumococcus, aureomycin brought about cures with the same speed as penicillin.

On the other hand, aureomycin, unlike penicillin and streptomycin, has been found particularly effective in the treatment of undulant fever or brucellosis. This condition is caused by a germ which often gets into the body from unpasteurized milk. With the aureomycin, the fever in a group of such patients studied, disappeared rapidly, and the other symptoms cleared up. Many of these patients had had the condition for a number of months and some were chronically ill. The diagnosis was proved in all cases by finding in the blood the germs responsible for the disease.

Further Tests

Although aureomycin has also been tried in patients with acute tuberculosis of the lungs, as yet it has been found to be ineffective, but further tests are going on.

So you can see why we can so enthusiastically say that aureomycin is truly a wonder drug.

Unfavorable reactions to aureomycin are not common and when they occur are usually limited to such minor discomforts as nausea and vomiting. Quickly taken up by the body from the large intestine, it is a powerful weapon in the treatment of many infections.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S. F.: Can hemorrhoids cause other ailments when infected? Is an operation necessary and is it serious?

Answer: Operations for hemorrhoids are not serious. Infected hemorrhoids could cause other ailments.

The condition should be taken care of by your physician promptly.

Tears of Joy Flow When Truck Found

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Baltimore's only horse-radish truck has been restored to its owner after 11 days of intense gloom and mystery.

Harry Tulkoss, head of the Tulkoss horse-radish company, assumed the truck had been stolen. Ten days after its disappearance, the tearful news was reported in the press. Tulkoss expressed amazement that police couldn't get onto the scent. He suggested that pedestrians whose eyes overflowed while passing a truck call police.

Tulkoss was still amazed when the truck turned up at a garage. No thief was involved. The horse-radish truck had been serviced at the garage, which had picked it up at night after Tulkoss' son had parked it.

Some Republicans Given New Name

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Rep. Huber (D-Ohio) has coined a word to describe those who seek a union between Republicans and southern Democrats.

"Those who indulge in this backward thinking should be labelled and treated as nabibupers," Huber set forth in a prepared statement.

He explained later that a "nabibuper" is a Republican spelled backwards. He did not make clear how one of them should be treated though.

State Meeting Is Passed Up

Judge Rell Allen
Too Busy to Leave

Probate Judge Rell G. Allen is not attending the annual meeting of the Ohio Association of Probate Court Judges being held in Columbus this week.

Judge Allen said that he is too busy to attend the convention.

Some 60 probate judges attending the meetings heard talks on institutional care of mental patients, Dr. C. C. Baker, chief of the state division of mental hygiene, and John H. Lamneck, state welfare director, were speakers. Most persons in state mental institutions were committed by probate judges.

The probate judges are holding a four-day convention which opened Tuesday. A two day session of Ohio juvenile judges follows the probate judge convention.

Judge Joseph E. Lady of Hardin County said both conventions will be "purely discussion groups." Judge Lady is in charge of the program for both meetings. He is secretary of the probate judges and president of the juvenile judge group.

"We meet primarily," explained Lady, "to help each other in solution of problems peculiar to the administration of our duties. We pass no resolutions, have no recommendations unless we are specifically asked for them."

The top item for discussion will be the commitment of senile, aged persons to state mental hospitals. This has become a major problem throughout the nation recently. The chief of Ohio's division of mental hygiene, Dr. C. C. Baker,

REPUTED GAMBLING baron Herbert Noble, in a Dallas, Tex., hospital after being struck by gangland bullets in the fifth attempt on his life, says he will stay on in Dallas in spite of attempts to run him out of town. Last November his wife was killed by bomb intended for him. (International)

Regular Church Day Resumed By Methodist Church WSCS

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church met at the church on Wednesday when it resumed its regular church day schedule after an interval of several months due to the extensive remodeling of the basement.

The business session at eleven o'clock in charge of the president, Mrs. Leola Weinrich, was opened with a piano prelude by Mrs. Loren C. Johnson, followed by the group singing of two hymns.

Mrs. Robert Johnson in charge of devotionals, discussed the importance of seemingly small services or contributions, stressing the fact that each member of a group has a responsibility for the use of his talents.

The society voted that each circle make a cash gift to be used for the purchase of equipment for the new kitchen.

It was announced that January 22 has been designated as "Dedication Day" for the newly remodeled portion of the church and an Open House is being planned for that afternoon when all interested friends may see the completed improvement.

The morning session was closed with prayer by Mrs. Ellis Bishop. A covered dish luncheon was served in Fellowship Hall, to an unusually large group of ladies who enjoyed the beauty and con-

Madison Mills WSCS Meets At LeBeau Home

Mrs. Fred LeBeau Jr. extended the hospitality of her home near Madison Mills to the members of the Madison Mills WSCS on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Leland Dorn, president, conducted the meeting opening with the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us". Mrs. Dwight King was devotional leader and used as her subject "The Whole of Love Is Our Answer". A group of readings were given on the article "We Come To Epiphany" by Mrs. King, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. Ralph Hays and Mrs. H. A. Pendleton.

A reading "Adoration" was given by Mrs. Arthur Schlichter. Another reading "Concentration" by Mrs. Walter Butcher and "Realization" by Mrs. H. W. Melvin. The song "Day Is Dying in the West" and the closing prayer by the group which closed the worship period.

Rev. Tucker was presented in an interesting talk on "Wesley Foundation", after which the society pledged ten dollars to the organization. Rev. Tucker announced a two weeks revival at Madison Mills Church opening January 15.

Twenty-six members responded to roll call and two guests, Mrs. Eugene Grim and Mrs. Worley Grim were welcomed as new members. The business session was closed with the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation" and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

During a social hour Mrs. Le Beau was assisted by Mrs. Richard Hunter and Mrs. Forest Fry in the serving of a delicious dessert course.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leland Dorn.

Cecilians Elect Officers At Annual Business Meeting

In the absence of the president Mrs. Harry G. Craig, Mrs. George Pensyl, vice president, presided over the annual business meeting of the Cecilians at the home of Mrs. Maurice B. Hopkins Wednesday evening.

Election of officers resulted unanimously in the retaining of old officers with the exception of the treasurer, Mrs. John D. Forsythe, who withdrew and was replaced by Mrs. Maurice B. Hopkins.

Four new active members were accepted by the club whose names will be announced later.

It was announced that a recording of the spring concert given by the Cecilians had been purchased. A financial contribution was made to be used for musical therapy in

Class Holds Regular Meeting

The Leadership Training Class met at the home of Mrs. E. T. Rockwell for the regular January meeting, with Mrs. Quincy Cheadle, Mrs. Walter Coil and Miss Florence Cook as hostesses.

The meeting was presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. Willis Chrisman, opening with devotionals, in charge of Mrs. Charles Sheppard. Miss Juanita Roberts gave the secretary's report and the treasurer, Mrs. Walter Coil, gave her report. Plans were made to entertain the members of the men's class on January 9, at a party in the church basement.

Reports on visits made to rest homes, which is a project of the class, were made by Mrs. J. Ray Farley and Mrs. George Robinson, Jr., and Mrs. Charles James reported on candy and cards presented the patients at Christmas. A "round robin" letter was written Miss Helen Simons, who is a patient in the hospital.

A letter from the Czechoslovakian family the class assists was read by Mrs. Farley in response to a box sent them for Christmas.

The meeting was closed with the class benediction and a social hour followed, during which the hostesses served a dainty refreshment course.

Letters Sent To Donors By Committee

Efforts Made To Give Recognition
On Hospital Gifts

Letters have been mailed to all the larger contributors to the equipment fund for the Fayette County Memorial Hospital, asking such donors to indicate their wishes as to whether they desire to have their names on plaques to be placed in appropriate places as memorials in the new institution.

The committee in charge of this plan is composed of the four heads of divisions of the organization which conducted the successful drive for $60,000 in contributions for hospital equipment, some time ago. Those composing the committee are Arthur H. Finley, chairman; C. F. Lucas, Walter Patton and Ralph Penn.

The letters, containing self-addressed return envelopes, ask that enclosed questionnaires be filled out and returned at once.

Since there will not be enough room for plaques to cover all donations, only those who request special recognition will be placed on these memorials posted about the hospital. All other contributors will be listed in a special souvenir book, placed in the hospital as a permanent record for public inspection, but without the amount of donations being listed.

All names and amounts given by each person or organization, however, have been accurately kept and will be a part of the hospital private records.

The committee's letter states that some donors have given large amounts definitely as a memorial. A surprisingly large number, the committee says, gave with the idea of simply helping a good cause in the community and sought no recognition at all.

When the committee has compiled all returns to their letter, the entire matter will be placed in the hands of the hospital board which has charge of construction and equipment. Requests by donors will be carried out as far as is possible, consistent with available space in proper places.

Population Getting Ahead of Jobs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The nation is failing to create enough jobs for its fast-growing population.

So says Secretary of Commerce Sawyer in summing up the 1949 job situation.

Sawyer pointed out that the average 58,700,000 employed last year was only slightly under the 1948 record.

However, he said there was an average of 3,400,000 unemployed in 1949. This was a big jump from the average 2,100,000 jobless in 1947 and 1948.

The answer, Sawyer said, is were Tuesday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Jack M. Wolfe and children. Mr. and Mrs. William Rittenhouse, Ronnie and Marilyn have moved into the Graves property on North Howard Street.

Mrs. Ernest R. Wilson, south of Sabina, is showing some improvement from a heart attack suffered December 20.

that new people are entering the labor force, looking for jobs, at a greater rate than the number of jobs are increasing. The secretary put it this way:

"The labor force has continued to expand in 1949 with the growth of the country's population, but employment opportunities have not kept pace."

Sawyer's comments were made yesterday in connection with Census Bureau employment figures for December. They showed total civilian employment for the month at 58,556,000.

Farm employment declined seasonally 1,105,000, but non-farm employment rose 143,000, leaving 962,000 fewer employed in December than in November. The unemployed in December numbered 3,489,000.

The fast rise in the unemployment is taking a big nick out of state unemployment insurance funds, too. A survey on this came from Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security.

Goodwin said the jobless payments reached a record $1,700,000,000 in 1949. The previous record was $1,100,000,000 in 1946.

The number of people getting the jobless payments, 7,500,000 also set a new record. The old high was 5,200,000 in 1940.

Taxes paid by employers toward state unemployment compensation funds amounted to about $1,000,000,000, or approximately 1.3 per cent of taxable wages. But the tax payments were short of meeting the $1,700,000,000 cost of benefits, so unemployment trust funds had to be tapped for the difference.

Union Officer Ousted For Cleveland Strike

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5—(AP)—The Cleveland Federation of Labor has suspended one of its delegates for leading Cleveland's recent transit strike.

The action was taken against Thomas P. Meaney, local president of the AFL Transit Union, last night as the climax to a heated and apparently confused session.

The American population is growing at the estimated rate of 10,000 a day.

YBM Making Plans For 1950

Election Slated For Next Meeting

Like anyone who has just completed something of which to be proud, the YBM of Washington C. H. took a look at the accomplishments of 1949 at its first meeting of the new year in the C of C offices.

Not content to rest on their laurels, the YBM moved ahead on projects initiated in 1949 and added a few ideas for civic improvement for the new year.

Tom Mark suggested that the YBM investigate the possibility of beautifying the infield at the fairgrounds. This proposal was received wholeheartedly and Tom was given the go-ahead and will report at the next meeting.

It was felt that the area enclosed by the track could be put to WCH's advantage at a minimum of expense. It was pointed out that many visitors to this city use the road that passes the track, in addition to the large crowds that would appreciate such a landscape improvement at fair time.

Election Feb. 6

President Hal Summers, in charge of the meeting, announced that the 1950 election of officers would be held at the next meeting on February 6.

At that time, the nominating committee will present a slate of four names for the offices of president and vice-president and two names for each position of secretary and treasurer.

On the nominating committee are Eli Craig, chairman, Lawrence Burris and Fuller Jefferson. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

A balance of $27.30 was reported in the treasury and the YBM then considered various money-raising projects for 1950.

The group felt that the YBM could make its contributions to the community more effective if there was a larger balance available for initiating projects. Heretofore, the group has had to wait on financial assistance from a variety of sources.

Projects that are being carried over from 1949 include the centralization of the Christmas basket list and the parking lot study.

1949 In Review

The accomplishments of 1949 included the Community Chest study, which culminated in a Chest being set up and a successful Red Feather Drive being carried out; the 3rd annual Halloween Jamboree; organization of a reception for the new $32,000 fire truck; direction of the annual Christmas Home Decoration Contest and the undertaking of a seatcushion concession at the fairgrounds.

In addition, members of the YBM worked closely with the Chamber of Commerce on the latter's membership and Christmas committees and assisted on various projects.

Present at the first 1950 meeting were Fred R. Woollard, Tom Mark, Jim Hutton, Bill Junk, Bud Mustine, C. E. McCarley, Perse Harlow, Walter Coil, Joe White and John F. Jefferson.

Welcomed at the meeting was Don Wood, roofing specialist with the H. A. Link Company here.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5—(AP)—Ohio's tax take on beer, wine and cigars totaled $39,033,882 last year, up $276,489 over 1948. The gain was .71 percent, the State Tax Department reported today. High power beer and cigarette

What Can The People Believe?

When the anti-trust lawyers in Washington filed their suit to put the A&P out of business, they immediately handed out for all the newspapers of the United States a story giving in detail their "allegations" against this company.

When we published advertisements giving our side of the case, they protested, even though they had made, and have continued to make, in newspapers, in speeches and over the radio these charges that would seriously damage our business, if they were believed by the public.

Every week millions of American housewives patronize A&P stores. Many of them would not want to deal with the kind of people that the anti-trust lawyers represent us to be.

We think we have a right to protect this 90-year old business which has made it possible for millions of American families to get more and better food for their money, which is providing high-wage employment for 110,000 Americans and which is helping millions of farmers to improve the methods of distributing their produce.

No answer by us would be necessary if the anti-trust lawyers were always right.

But they, like all other human beings, can be wrong.

In this case we know they are wrong.

They have been wrong before.

In case after case they made charges against A&P which were proved in court to be utterly without foundation.

We will prove that statement right up to the hilt.

The anti-trust lawyers tell the public that they won a previous anti-trust suit against us at Danville, Illinois. They did.

What they do not tell you is that they brought case after case against the A&P in federal courts all over the United States. Before they won this case they suffered three defeats.

The anti-trust lawyers have told everybody about the time that the courts said they were right. We think you are entitled to know about the three times the courts said they were wrong.

Now we are going to tell you about the first one. In future advertisements we will tell you about all of them.

The Washington Bread Case

In April, 1941, the anti-trust lawyers brought a criminal suit in Washington, D. C.

They charged that the A&P, two grocery chain competitors, two labor unions and other good American citizens had conspired to fix the price of bread.

Can anyone imagine any charge calculated to be more damaging to a retail grocery business? They asked millions of people to believe that we were the kind of grocers who would take bread out of the mouths of poor people and make it harder for a wife and mother to feed her family.

These charges were false.

In that case it developed that the A&P and the two competitors who were charged with conspiring with us to maintain high bread prices actually sold bread cheaper than most of the other stores in Washington.

The anti-trust lawyers presented and argued their case. When they were through, Federal District Judge Allen T. Goldsborough ruled that A&P and the other defendants did not even need to put in a defense. He instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

Judge Goldsborough said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all.

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

So here was a case in which the anti-trust lawyers made seriously damaging charges against the A&P, in support of which, in the words of the court, they did not have "any evidence at all."

This was not the only time the anti-trust lawyers made charges against the A&P which the courts said were not true. In future ads we are going to tell you about these other suits. We are not going to duck, either. We are going to tell you about the criminal suit that the anti-trust lawyers won at Danville, Illinois.

The anti-trust lawyers say that they are not attacking "bigness" or efficiency. They have to say that because the courts have decided that "bigness" and efficiency and selling at low prices is not a crime.

But the fact is crystal clear that they only brought their bread suit against the big companies and against the companies that sold good bread at the lowest prices; just as in this current suit they are attacking a big company that sells good food cheap.

We are going to show the American people that the suit to destroy A&P is really a suit against efficiency and against real competition.

The real question involved in this suit is whether businessmen are going to be encouraged to do a better and more efficient job; or whether we are going to let the anti-trust lawyers in Washington blow the whistle on anybody who gets big by giving the people more for their money.

No one can make us believe that it is a crime to try to sell the best quality food at the lowest possible price.

Swine Breeders And Feeders To Organize Here

Meeting Is Called For Tuesday To Form Association

A Swine Breeders and Feeders Association today was in the office for Fayette County.

Formal organization of the new association is scheduled for next Tuesday night at a meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Farm Bureau building. It is scheduled to get under way at 8 P. M.

A committee of farmers here interested in hog raising are one of their major operations laid plans for the association and set the meeting date and place this week.

Members of this committee present at the planning meeting were Charles McCoy, Earl Harper, Irvin Yeoman, E. A. Saville, Paul Shephard, Charles Andrews, Robert Owens, Kenneth Bush and Joe Saville. Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University swine specialist, and W. W. Montgomery, the county's agricultural extension agent, also were there.

Breeders of virtually all of the popular breeds of hogs were represented on the committee.

100 Letters Sent Out

Letters, telling about the plans for the association, have gone out from Montgomery's office to more than 100 breeders and feeders of hogs and others in Fayette County interested in the swine program.

The primary purpose of the projected association, a spokesman for the planning committee said, is to carry on a swine educational program. By and large, it was added, the county association is to be patterned after the state association which has been active throughout Ohio for several years.

Officers of the state association are A. B. Evans of Cedarville, president; Harold Hart of Columbus, vice president and J. S. Coffey of Ohio State University, secretary. They were elected for the coming year last week.

Association's Purpose

The Swine Breeders and Feeders Association in the county is to center much of its interest in the overall swine program to be carried out here. It is to handle such matters as arranging meetings for hog breeders and feeders, tour of inspection, a fat barrow show at the Fair and promotion of 4-H club swine projects.

The importance of Fayette County in the state in hog production was underscored by elections of state organizations for the various breeds as the close of the last year.

Robert Owens was reelected secretary of the Ohio Duroc Breeders Association. Owens has been secretary for a number of years.

Charles Andrews of the Andrews and Baughn Hampshire farm was elected secretary of the Ohio Hampshire Breeders Association.

Joe Saville, Jasper Township, was elected secretary of the Ohio Berkshire Breeders Association.

Probably no other county has the distinction of having three state breed association secretaries.

VFW Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary to the V. F. W. Post 5434 held its regular meeting Monday evening in the Post rooms with President Mrs. Paul Bernard presiding. The charter was draped in memory of

Mrs. Grace H. Davis, Past National Secretary-Treasurer who passed away November 27. It was voted to send $5 to the March of Dimes and the evening's collection to Brown's Veterans Hospital, Dayton, for the benefit of World War I veterans. Hospitals project for this month is the collection of rags for rug weaving by the blind veterans in the Dayton hospital. Members are requested to prepare these rags at home and bring them to the next meeting for packing and sending; cotton and silk rags should be 2 inches wide, wool rags 1 inch wide and not longer than 18 inches, and will be initiated at the next Three candidates were voted upon meeting.

Lion Cagers Play Greenfield Here in SCO Game Friday

Fresh from tasting their first win of the season last week, the WHS Blue Lions play host to Greenfield Friday night in a crucial SCO League battle.

The McClain Tigers bring an unbeaten SCO record to WCH, having whipped both Hillsboro and Circleville. Their record for the season is four wins against two defeats.

Coach Steve Lewis' boys got up

Two Clean Sweeps In Lions League

The evening's high score of 2326 (no handicap) rolled by the Jamestown Tamers was good for a clean sweep of their match with the WCH Claws in Wednesday night's Lions League bowling at Bowland. Consistency turned the trick for the Tamers; not one individual score was over the 500 mark, but all of them were near it.

Second high team score of 2261 was rolled by the WCH Tail Twisters as they took the first and last games from the WCH Cubs.

Hunter's 548 total was largely responsible for the clean sweep the Bloomingburg Tail Twisters made in their match with the Jamestown Cubs. Reese of the Cubs got the only individual score over 200.

In the hottest match of the evening, the Bloomingburg Claws won the first and last games from the WCH Tamers. They took the opener with a 16-pin margin, dropped the middle tilt by 30 pins and came back in the finale to win by a single pin.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

SUDDENLY Gerry recognized him. This was Sam Strunsky, son of the saloon keeper on the corner near where he had lived as a child, and one of the gang of urchins with whom he had ranged about town. He had forgotten most of them and had made no effort to remember since that part of his life was done. He had never even been down to the street where his mother's house still stood. He had wanted no contact with the past and his feeling now, as Sam put out his hand, was one of irritated dislike.

"Sure," he said. "Sure, I remember you. You're Sam. Sam Strunsky."

Sam nodded, his grin flaring up into one cheek. "Wondered if you could forget. We pulled off a few tricks together, him and me," he said to Herman. "A few? Plenty!" He elevated one foot to the rung of a chair, took out a cigar from his shirt pocket, bit off the end, lit it and put it in his mouth where it looked ridiculously big for his face. "Turned in some fire alarms, I remember. And some that wasn't false--especially Halloween." He winked and his grin flared again. "We sure was busy Halloween! Remember the time Gerry didn't want to talk with Sam but it was better than being by himself, and he was curious. For in spite of his appearance like that of a nam actor, Sam looked prosperous. There was a big diamond flashing on one finger. The wide silver belt he wore was solid and handwrought. He had, in fact, the smug contented air of the little man who, by his own efforts, has made good on a shoestring, and Gerry, possessing a shoestring not much longer, wanted to know how he had done it. Accepting a beer from Herman and a cigar from Strunsky, he sat down with them long enough to find out.

Briefly, Sam had played the numbers racket. In and out of the Army in no time flat--where, through an accident, he had received the face scar he bore--he had hidden behind the facade of a job as milkman and had stayed in the game until he scented danger. Then he had fled. He had gone west, and now in Nevada he was engaged in the legitimate business of running a saloon as his father had before him.

"I just came East for the old man's funeral. Member my old man? Well, he's gone." He drew on his cigar and let his lively little eyes travel over Gerry speculatively--the English tweed suit, the fine white shirt, the high-priced shoes. "Been playin' in luck yourself, eh?"

"I'm doing all right."

"Well," Sam's grin flared again, "any time you ain't, head west, young man, head west. That's an old saw. But it's a good one. Plenty of room out there. Plenty of angles to play. Frown of Las Vegas is wide open. We might even..." Again his glance went flaring over Gerry. "We might even work together on something the way we used to. You never can tell."

Gerry's sense of irritation, forgotten in the interest of Sam's story, returned as he rose.

"Thanks," he said shortly. "But I'm staying here. He put out his hand, wished Sam continued good luck and went back to his room.

When he pushed the door open, he was sitting in the brown wicker chair waiting for him, was Alicia Brandt.

He did not know whether to be glad or sorry to see her, and in his uncertainty he first closed the door quickly and then as quickly opened it again.

She gave him a low, throaty chuckle. "Am I compromising you?"

"I was thinking of you."

"No, you weren't." Her smile faded and he saw her eyes keen and hurt for a moment. "You were thinking of yourself. As you always will," she added.

He laughed. "Well, if I don't, who's going to?"

"Right. And I didn't mean it for censure, anyway. It was merely an observation."

He sat down on his bed next to her. She had on a green silk suit with a bright plaid wool scarf wound about her head. Her matching mittens were drying on the radiator, and little puddles of melted snow from her heavy boots were forming on the rug at her feet. He looked down at them and then up at her in surprise.

"Did you walk down?"

"Certainly. The road isn't open for cars yet. The plow hasn't been here."

"Well, I'm honored!" His glance was curious, unbelieving, as he wondered if the reason she was here could possibly be the one he thought, if she would really take that much risk.

"No," she said, reading his mind. "I've just brought you a message from Susan."

"From Susan! How in the devil did you hear from her?"

"She telephoned. Your time wasn't working so she tried mine, which was. Quite simple, you see. She wants you to come right up to the school. Tonight, if possible. Tomorrow anyway for the weekend. I gathered that it was urgent."

Gerry made no answer. He was thinking oddly enough not of Susan and her swift response to his letter, but of Alicia who had walked two miles on this wild night, and in defiance of convention, to tell him this.

Now it turns out that the bowl games which opened 1950 didn't bring the college football broadcast season to wind up after all. Still another event is to go on the air via MBS Saturday afternoon.

This is a new one, the first senior bowl game to be played at Jacksonvill, Fla., site of the "Gator Bowl" contest last Monday. It is called the Senior Bowl because the players participating have finished their college football careers. The teams are being selected on a sectional basis, each member to share in the proceeds.

The broadcast is scheduled for 2:30 P. M., with Harry Wismer of ABC and Red Grange handling the microphone.

Russia Plugs Ears To Prisoner Charge

TOKYO, Jan. 5--(AP)--Russia's member of the allied council for Japan took another walk today. He, thus, avoided hearing an American charge that 376,000 Japanese war prisoners still are in Soviet hands--or dead.

Lt. Gen. K. N. Derevyanko's walkout duplicated his performance of two weeks ago today. Then also he refused to discuss Russia's failure to complete repatriation of Japanese captured in World War II.

When the burly Russian stalked out of today's special council session, American Chairman William J. Sebald went ahead with the charge.

Westminster Guild Holds First Meeting of New Year

The Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church met in the church auditorium for the first meeting of the year at 2 o'clock Wednesday, with the new president, Mrs. Charles Reinke in charge.

Mrs. Reinke opened with a short prayer. A hymn was sung with Mrs. Russell Geibelhouse at the piano and Miss Mazie Kessler on the violin as accompanists.

Mrs. Reinke presented Mrs. C. H. Thoroman, who talked on Stewardship and expressed the hope for a better spiritual year.

The Secretary Miss May Duffee, read the minutes of the December meeting and a letter from Dr. C. G. Salisbury of Ganado Mission, of Ganado, Arizona, of thanks for Christmas box sent.

Week of Prayer Comes to End Here On Friday

Christian Message Delivered On Dawn Of Another New Year

The Week of Prayer being observed in churches of this city and nearby rural communities will come to an end Friday night, it was announced today by Rev. Allan Caley, president of the Fayette County Ministerial Association.

Rev. Caley got the week underway last Sunday night with a message delivered to the members of the First Baptist Church. Tuesday night Rev. Francis T. McCarty spoke to the members of the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

Wednesday night Rev. Caley delivered a message to members of both the Methodist and Presbyterian churches in Bloomingburg while Rev. D. J. Macdonald had charge of services at the First Christian Church.

Thursday night Rev. Allan Peterson will preach to members of the North Main Street A. M. E. Church while Rev. Francis T. McCarty will have charge of services at the Staunton Methodist Church.

Rev. C. B. Tigner will conclude the Week of Prayer Friday night by taking charge of the services at the Grace Methodist Church. All the services begin at 7:30 P. M. and are sponsored by the Fayette County Ministerial Association.

Rev. Caley said arrangements are made to visit as many of the churches as possible during the week.

He said the week gives ministers here an opportunity to "give offices to the Christian message at the beginning of the new year to meet together with church members in fellowship and thanksgiving for the new year."

The ministerial association also cooperates in holding the Thanksgiving union service.

Yule Decorations

(Continued from Page One) uptown Christmas decorations were not nearly so colorful or bright as they had been before or have been the last two years.

In 1948, the first of the replacements for the lost overhead street lighting strands were bought by the Chamber of Commerce. Last year, about as many more were added to give the business section nearly complete coverage. The first set of lights was insured for $1,000. Last year, when the strands were about doubled, the insurance was upped to $2,000.

McCarley added that the Chamber also carried liability insurance on the lights until Jan. 10. He explained that is one reason he and the Chamber directors are anxious to get them all down and put away before next Tuesday.

Favorable Comment The Christmas lighting effects in Washington C. H. drew much favorable comment from motorists passing through the city as well as from residents of Washington C. H. and Fayette County.

Another part of the Christmas scene in downtown Washington C. H. the merry-go-round on the Court House lawn—also drew praise. Several thousand youngsters got free rides on the carousel.

Money for the lights and the merry-go-round came in part out of the Community Chest. The Chamber of Commerce was in charge of arranging for the erection of the merry-go-round and the stringing of the Christmas decorations.

Madison Township Goes Over the Top

Madison township is the first in the county to exceed its 1949 membership, according to Percie Kennell, secretary of the Farm Bureau.

Last year, Madison township had 51 members and already has a total of 53 for 1950.

Madison township is well represented on the county Board of Directors with their township chairman, Homer Wilson; and Howard Hopkins, president; and Mrs. Howard Hopkins, lady director.

Sewage Disposal Bills Bear Wrong Date Due to Error

Miss Marie Melvin, city auditor, calls attention of Washington C. H. citizens to the fact that due to an error in printing, the bills for sewage disposal for the first three months of 1950, bear the date "1949."

The statements are for January, February and March this year, instead of for the first three months last year and those receiving the bills are asked to consider the statements accordingly.

As the cards bearing the statement of charge are presented for payment, the dates will be changed to 1950 so that the receipt will show the first quarter's disposal charges have been paid for 1950.

Officers Attend Wilmington Meet

Members of the Farm Bureau legislative committee and other directors were in Wilmington Wednesday evening, attending a cabinet meeting of the seventh Farm Bureau district held at the General Denver Hotel. Morris Aulton, assistant legislative director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and Mrs. Litta K. Roberson, Home and Community Director of the State Federation, were present.

Plans were drafted for the legislative program of the district for the coming year and the membership progress of the district was reported. Fayette County reported a total of 630 members already rolled.

Members of the legislative committee and the directors attending from Fayette County were: Walter Sollars, Glenn L. Smith, Chester Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hopkins.

YEGGS BUY COKE

MARYSVILLE — Thirsty safe crackers spent nine nickels to buy cokes from a self service machine while robbing the Spittler Motor Sales safe of $100.

The Golden Horn, inlet of the Sea of Marmara in the passage between the Black and Mediterranean seas, was so called because of the rich fishing there.

Real Estate Values

Becker indicated that the board wants to have proper equalization of taxes provided for under the new law, and said that is the reason of the present inquiry into valuations listed in this county.

The new valuations of real estate submitted to the state department of taxation showed an increase of $3,912,260, or approximately 16.08 per cent, with the average boost in the townships reaching 13.41 per cent. In the municipalities, the increase was 21.86 per cent.

It is understood the state department is particularly interested in the land valuations in the county, and will compare them with those approved in adjoining counties.

Figures released by Acton show that the average value of land, without buildings, in rural Fayette County, was set at $53.44 per acre; value of buildings at $17.55 per acre, or total average value of farm lands and buildings $71 per acre.

These land and building values run from $63.85 per acre in Marion Township to $100.74 per acre in Union Township.

The average increase in land values in the county, Acton's figures show, was 13.41 percent over the old valuation.

Meanwhile, there are indications that the already belated tax collection for December will be carried along until a much later date, and at the present time there is nothing upon which to base the exact time for opening the tax books for collecting the December installment of taxes.

Approval of Fayette County's reappraisal has been further complicated by the death of Frank F. Fleming, 62, chairman of the State Board of Tax Appeals, who did most of the questioning when Auditor Acton recently appeared before the board.

Judge Fleming died in the Deshler-Wallick Hotel Wednesday evening while attending the probate judges' convention. He was former probate judge of Washington County and a native of Marietta.

The Schoedinger Funeral Home in Columbus is in charge of funeral arrangements.
